Conduct Inquiries As To Cause Of Asylum Disaster

SUPERINTENDENT PREVIOUSLY IMPLORED LEGISLATURE TO PROVIDE NECESSARY FIRE PROTECTION FOR CHARGES

(By Associated Press)

New York, Feb. 19—Eight inquiries were under way today in the tragedy on Ward's Island, a little jutting rock in the swirling waters of Hell's Gate late yesterday, when fire swept the ward of the Manhattan hospital for insane, killing twenty-two patients and three male attendants.

Nineteen bodies had been recovered before dusk and removed to the city morgue, but six more remain in the ruins. These it is feared have been cremated and Superintendent Marcus S. Heyman expressed doubt whether more than charred bones would ever be recovered.

Caused by Blast

The blaze was believed to have been started by a terrific blast in Hell's Gate which broke the insulation on the electric wires, causing a short circuit.

A curious hush pervaded the island during the night. The bedlam of cries and suffering which ordinarily is expected, was entirely lacking. The total population of the island kept phlegmatic calm after the day of sorrow, a day in which the insane acted most sanely.

One unit of seventy-five on the island that was made up of mostly men, violently insane—men of homicidal tendencies—who might have leaped at the throats of their rescuers, did not hardly struggle as the guards tried to push their way to safety through the smoke and flames, and not a single attack on an attendant was reported.

The fire marshall's office was the center of today's first investigation. A funeral barge moved down East River shortly before midnight carrying to the morgue the nineteen bodies which had been recovered. In only five cases was identification possible.

Several world war veterans perished in the flames. Fire many times as disastrous as yesterday's may at any moment break out in Ward's Island, Superintendent Marcus Heyman said today.

The island has seventy-five structures of which fifty are used to house patients. Of the entire number, two are fire proof. Dr. Heyman asserts he has vainly implored the legislature to provide an appropriation to protect his charges from fire.

The island fire fighting forces are entirely inadequate.

$125,000 Damage As Fire Sweeps Elcho Yesterday

(By Associated Press)

Antigo, Wis. Feb, 19.—The business district of Elcho a lumber and resort center, twenty-one miles north of this city, lay in ruins this morning after a fire of unknown origin which raged from early Sunday morning to noon, according to reports reaching here.

The buildings of the Elcho State Bank, the Muskie hotel and seven stores were destroyed reports said. The loss expected to exceed $125,000.

Water Lacking

Handicapped by lack of water pumping facilities, residents attempting to abate the conflagration were forced to watch the fire rage almost unchecked until its path was practically cleared.

When the blaze reached the office of the Charles Fish Lumber Company, one of the largest timber owners in the state, small hand pumps and a bucket brigade succeeded in checking the blaze. Most of the buildings destroyed in the fire were owned by the Fish Company, it is stated, and will be rebuilt.

There were no injuries.

With almost every well in town frozen solid, citizens of Elcho were forced to stand by and watch practically the entire business district burn to the ground.

The fire which started in the Central Heating Plant spread from that building until the flames had destroyed the drug store, general store, warehouse, bank, telephone office, hotel and railroad station. The buildings, all frame structures, burned like tinder and when it became apparent that the business district was in danger, citizens turned attention to rescuing the contents of the stores bank and hotel before the flames spread.

The only waterworks in town was a small pressure system in the hotel. The town has been forced to use melted snow and ice and depend upon a few wells which had been kept open for their water supply.

Elcho is a town of about six hundred inhabitants.

ALLEGED FORGER BRINGS SUIT FOR $4,000 DAMAGES

A. P. LOVEJOY SUES F. W. CALKINS AND H. N. PIERCE FOR CONSPIRACY AND FALSE IMPRISONMENT.

Through Milwaukee attorneys, Albert P. Lovejoy, a former employee of the Wisconsin Highway Commission offices in this city, has filed notice of suit against H. N. Pierce and ex-District Attorney Frank Calkins for $4,000 alleging false imprisonment and conspiracy to rob him of his good name and character because of his arrest and confinement in the Wood county jail on a charge of forging the signature of Pierce to a note on the Wood County National Bank. This alleged offense occurred sometime ago.

Living In Illinois

Notice of the suit was received by the local parties Saturday and was filed through the offices of a Milwaukee attorney. Lovejoy, who is now a resident of Cook county, Illinois, swore out his affidavit there and it is expected that the defendents will have the case transferred to this district as the alleged offense occurred here.

In his complaint Lovejoy alleges that Pierce is a party in a conspiracy to rob him of his good name and is suing him for $2,000 on this complaint. In his other charge both Pierce and attorney Calkins are each sued for $1,000, alleging false imprisonment.

History of Case

According to Attorney Calkins, Pierce came to him while he was district attorney and swore out a warrant for Lovejoy's arrest. When the complaint was made Pierce claimed that Lovejoy asked him to sign the note but was refused. Nothing more was said about the matter until notice was served by the bank on Mr. Pierce that the note was due and that he as an endorser would have to make good. Denying that he ever endorsed the note, Mr. Pierce swore out the warrant in the office of the district attorney and Lovejoy was brought back to this city from Milwaukee, where he had gone in the meantime.

Sister Secures Release

After about three weeks confinement in the county jail Lovejoy's sister offered to make restitution and through Attorney Roberts, who acted as Lovejoy's attorney in the matter, it was agreed that the case be dropped when Lovejoy's sister made the necessary payments.

Upon his release from custody it is alleged that an officer from the Milwaukee county sheriff's office apprehended Lovejoy on charges of passing worthless checks in that city and Lovejoy was brought bak to Milwaukee to stand trial in the new charges. These charges do not figure in the coming law suit.

Claims "No Case"

According to Mr. Calkins the suit against him, acting as he was as district attorney, is without foundation and will not stand trial in circut court. It is his contention that he was acting for the state in a criminal matter on a warrant sworn out by a resident of Wisconsin. t is his further belief that the suit against Mr. Pierce will be unsuccessful if the facts contained in the original warrant against Lovejoy are true. This involves the question as to whether Lovejoy forged the signature to the note, which is the contention of Mr. Pierce, or whether Pierce really signed the note as alleged by Lovejoy.

Plan To Investigate Two Milwaukee Road Wrecks

Green Bay, Wis., Feb. 19—Derailment of two freight trains on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway last evening from unknown causes, caused a thorough investigation to be made by road officials, it was made known here today.

At 6:00 p. m. Sunday evening, seventeen cars of logs on the branch line running between Menominee, Mich., and Ellis Junction, ran off the track one mile west of Wrightstown. A wrecking crew has been dispatched to the scene and they report that the road will be open by 6:00 p. m. this evening.

The second wreck occurred at Cormier on the main line from Milwaukee to Champion at 8:00 p. m. when thirteen cars went off the track. An hour's delay was made necessary by the derailment which held up the passenger trains No. 2 and 3 for four hours.

ALLEGED FORGER BRINGS SUIT FOR $4,000 DAMAGES

A. P. LOVEJOY SUES F. W. CALKINS AND H. N. PIERCE FOR CONSPIRACY AND FALSE IMPRISONMENT.

Through Milwaukee attorneys, Albert P. Lovejoy, a former employee of the Wisconsin Highway Commission offices in this city, has filed notice of suit against H. N. Pierce and ex-District Attorney Frank Calkins for $4,000 alleging false imprisonment and conspiracy to rob him of his good name and character because of his arrest and confinement in the Wood county jail on a charge of forging the signature of Pierce to a note on the Wood County National Bank. This alleged offense occurred sometime ago.

Living In Illinois

Notice of the suit was received by the local parties Saturday and was filed through the offices of a Milwaukee attorney. Lovejoy, who is now a resident of Cook county, Illinois, swore out his affidavit there and it is expected that the defendents will have the case transferred to this district as the alleged offense occurred here.

In his complaint Lovejoy alleges that Pierce is a party in a conspiracy to rob him of his good name and is suing him for $2,000 on this complaint. In his other charge both Pierce and attorney Calkins are each sued for $1,000, alleging false imprisonment.

History of Case

According to Attorney Calkins, Pierce came to him while he was district attorney and swore out a warrant for Lovejoy's arrest. When the complaint was made Pierce claimed that Lovejoy asked him to sign the note but was refused. Nothing more was said about the matter until notice was served by the bank on Mr. Pierce that the note was due and that he as an endorser would have to make good. Denying that he ever endorsed the note, Mr. Pierce swore out the warrant in the office of the district attorney and Lovejoy was brought back to this city from Milwaukee, where he had gone in the meantime.

Sister Secures Release

After about three weeks confinement in the county jail Lovejoy's sister offered to make restitution and through Attorney Roberts, who acted as Lovejoy's attorney in the matter, it was agreed that the case be dropped when Lovejoy's sister made the necessary payments.

Upon his release from custody it is alleged that an officer from the Milwaukee county sheriff's office apprehended Lovejoy on charges of passing worthless checks in that city and Lovejoy was brought bak to Milwaukee to stand trial in the new charges. These charges do not figure in the coming law suit.

Claims "No Case"

According to Mr. Calkins the suit against him, acting as he was as district attorney, is without foundation and will not stand trial in circut court. It is his contention that he was acting for the state in a criminal matter on a warrant sworn out by a resident of Wisconsin. t is his further belief that the suit against Mr. Pierce will be unsuccessful if the facts contained in the original warrant against Lovejoy are true. This involves the question as to whether Lovejoy forged the signature to the note, which is the contention of Mr. Pierce, or whether Pierce really signed the note as alleged by Lovejoy.

Plan To Investigate Two Milwaukee Road Wrecks

Green Bay, Wis., Feb. 19—Derailment of two freight trains on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway last evening from unknown causes, caused a thorough investigation to be made by road officials, it was made known here today.

At 6:00 p. m. Sunday evening, seventeen cars of logs on the branch line running between Menominee, Mich., and Ellis Junction, ran off the track one mile west of Wrightstown. A wrecking crew has been dispatched to the scene and they report that the road will be open by 6:00 p. m. this evening.

The second wreck occurred at Cormier on the main line from Milwaukee to Champion at 8:00 p. m. when thirteen cars went off the track. An hour's delay was made necessary by the derailment which held up the passenger trains No. 2 and 3 for four hours.

Assembly To Vote Tuesday On Fate Of Nat'nal Guard

(By Associated Press)

Madison, Wis. Feb. 19—With passage recommended by the state affairs committee of the lower house the Polakowski bill calling for complete abolition of the Wisconsin National Guard, will go before the assembly of the legislature tomorrow for action by that body.

Expressions of sentiment of the assembly toward the measure will be called for before it goes to engrossment. A bitter fight is looked for between the socialists who predict passage by a sizeable majority, and forces of the guard looking for defeat of the proposal in the house where it originated.

Whatever the outcome in the assembly, the bill will be killed in the senate it is definitely assured.

AUTHORITY WILL DISCUSS FEEDING

PROF. F. B. MORRISON WILL BE THE PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT MARSHFIELD INSTITUTE, FEB. 22ND.

Proper feeding of dairy cattle as one of the roads to profitable dairying will be discussed by Prof. F. B. Morrison of the College of Agriculture, nationally known authority on dairy feeding, who will be the principal speaker at Central Wisconsin Day, the first day of the Marshfield Farm Institute which opens in the city hall in that city February 22.

Dinner is Feature

Farmers from all over Central Wisconsin are invited to be present and it is expected that there will be a large attendance from Clark and Marathon counties as well as from Wood. A feature of the day will be a "Wood County Dinner" which will be served free to all farmers and at which nothing but Wood County products will be on the menu. An agricultural fair is also planned in connection with the institute, and large exhibits of grains, grasses, potatoes and dairy products are assured. There will also be a section of the fair devoted to household products and another to boys and girls club exhibits.

Professor Morrison, whose address will be the chief feature of the program Thursday, is one of the authors of Henry and Morrison's well known book on "Feeds and Feeding," which is recognized as the most authoritative work on the subject. In coming to Marshfield Professor Morrison is coming back to his old home, as he was born on a farm a short distance south of that city.

French Pay Selves

Gelsenkirchen's fine of 100,000,000 marks, assessed them as a penalty for the shooting of two French soldiers, was paid out of the 110,000,000 paper marks which the French seized when they took over the railroad station.

The French also appropriated 250,000,000 marks in Trier, it is believed. This money was to have been used for the benefit of the striking railroad men. The French will turn it over to their own railroad operation account.

NOTHING FOR COUE

The statements emanating from New York that Emile Coue, noted Frenchman, who recently toured sections of the United States healing various cripples and invalids by his autosuggestion, has not received compensation personally for his lectures outside of his personal expense.

Coue is the sensation of the hour and a man who might very easily capitalize on his prominence. He certainly sets a wonderful example for some of the other tourists from abroad who come here to gather some of the coin of the realm and then go back to their native countries to live in luxury until they live it up.

NOBLE WORK

The surveys made by the experts of the state in the penal institutions where ex-service men are confined as originated and ordered by Gov. Blaine is a very fine piece of work. The results are not only interesting but important. Wisconsin is truly a state worthy of the name of friend of the service man. Wisconsin's idea befriending and reclaiming the ex-service man who have fallen into trouble is a high grade piece of statesmanship and citizenship.

PURPOSES OF FRANCE IN THE RUHR

The more one examines the Ruhr policy of the French the more one is persuaded that whatever may be the economic objective it is not that of reparations. To dislocate the exceedingly delicate machine of the industrial Ruhr is a sure way of preventing Germany from ever paying the sums which France insists upon. Why, then, did France launch upon an adventure which could not bring it in the cash it wants?

It is no secret that certain great French capitalists are striving for nothing less than the economic junction of the Ruhr, and of Lorraine. In one is to be found coal and coke, and blasting furnaces. In the other is to be found the iron ore. Whether by peaceful bargaining of by coercive methods, it would appear inevitable that, sooner or later, the Ruhr and the Lorraine will be wedded and working together.

This last purpose deserves some examination in detail. If these economic results can be achieved, France would be the iron and steel masters of Europe. They would have a real hegemony. Naturally England who forced France to go into the Ruhr, is disturbed at this possibility.

Once in, however, France has various objects, which despite Poincaire's refusal to disclose are summarized as follows:

1. It believes that it is only necessary to exercise a certain amount of pressure on the German industrialists to bring them to their knees, and to cause them to accept any terms that France puts forward; in order to lead up to fresh conversations of a more serious kind, in which all the cards should be in French hands.

2. There is undoubtedly a French party which aims at the annexation, both of the Rhineland, and of the Ruhr, and is for ever insisting on political grounds.

3. In addition, to the separatist purpose expressed in the first paragraph, and the political purpose expressed in the second, there is a third purpose which may be called the economic purpose expressed in the first paragraph, which is borne in the French mind.

If the plan succeeds, it will make France not only the greatest power in Europe, but the greatest industrial power Europe has ever had.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX FACTS

No. 19.

While the word "depreciation" is not used in the revenue act of 1921, it provides that in computing net income there shall be allowed "a reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear of property used in the trade or business, including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence." The deduction is confined to property actually used in trade or business. In general it applies to capital assets, the cost of which can not be deducted as an expense.

For example, a lawyer or physician is not permitted to write off as a current expense the cost of his professional library, but may deduct an allowance for its depreciation.

Deductions are not allowed for depreciation of a taxpayers' home, the furnishings therein, his personal effects, nor automobiles used chiefly for pleasure or convenience. Depreciation does not apply to inventories or stock in trade, nor to the value of land, whether improved or unimproved.

Depreciation may be claimed on all business property, which includes not only buildings, but machinery of a permanent character, automobiles, farm tractors, mines and mill equipment, furniture and books.

The value to be cared for by depreciation is the cost of the property. However, in the case of property acquired prior to March 1, 1913, the deduction shall be computed upon its fair market price or value as of that date.

Rural Carrier Saves Four From Fire Death

The fortunate appearance of Fred Marquardt, retired mail carrier at Wausau, who heard screams of four little children at the home of Mrs. Mary Malinowski in that city, probably saved them from being dangerously or fatally burned and the residence from being destroyed by fire.

In attempting to light a kerosene lamp during the absence of their mother they set fire to a bundle of papers and a small table was also scorched by the flames. The children range in age from one to eight years.

Children at the home of George Swanson at Wausau stuffed papers and other refuse in the hot air radiators of their home, which later became ignited, causing flames to leap up. Firemen were called and put out the blaze before much damage resulted.

And Boyce Clendenning set like a hound upon his trail! She seemed to feel again the reticence of the riders at Paradise to discuss the Rustler—remembered the tight-lipped quiet concerning that night at Hunnewells.

The pain in her heart at Redstars loss had been a bagatelle compared to the black anguish that lay there now!

The Black Rustler! Velantrie—the slim, the vital, the tender! Velantrie of the sparkling eyes! This, then, was what he had meant when he had asked her to "let him go"—was what Father Hillaire had meant when he said, "If I should tell you something that would make you less happy"—this was the hideous meaning of it all!

And Velantrie himself sat there with his eyes upon her face and said not a word. At last she wet her lips and turned to him—and the man cursed inwardly at the anguish on her face—

"Tell—me," she said thickly, "that it—is—not true! Deny—"

Velantrie turned his gaze from her and looked out along the plains. The blue eyes narrowed, the stern look that the Border knew came hard about his mouth.

"No," he said at last, "I—do not deny."

Val's face worked and she put out a trembling hand. Always it seemed she was reaching, consciously or unconsciously for this man.

"You—can not?"

He thought a moment.

"No," he said, "can not."

Her lips were shaking, the tears were welling in her dark eyes, all but spilling over.

"Even so," she said, "you are my man. Goodby."

Without a word Velantrie struck spurs to the horse beneath him and shot forth to the hot plain— and oblivion.

And Val Hannon at the trail's foot laid her face down in Redcloud's mane and fell to weeping—the low, deep weeping that comes but rarely to strong and sustained natures.

CHAPTER XVII

Briston Does Some Thinking

Many things were brewing in the rangeland. Among the ranchers the talk had crystallized into preparedness. Meetings had been held, squads apportioned for different parts of the country under this rancher and that to patrol and to watch, a system of fire-signals—farthest reaching sign-speech of the plains—agreed upon.

At Santa Leandra, Lolo Sanchez studied a man with her cunning eyes and cast the light of her smiles that way—and the man was none other than that huge bulk of laughter and mysterious wealth, Brideman. Amazed, flattered out of all reason, the bearded giant came often to Leandra and he tied his horse at Sanchez's fence, to stand in the shadow of the cottonwoods and talk with the girl.

And far in the rugged fastnesses of the Blind Trail Hills the days wore by with wearines. In Redstar's hidden glade the path by the binding walls was growing deeper, the top sapling of the inset gate was thinned and ragged, flaunting long white fiber banners to the breeze for the stallion never ceased his constant gnawing at the hindering bars. As for the king himself, he was lean with the endless fret, hard as nails with the everlasting runs about the walls, and his eager eyes were hollow with despair.

At Paradise the old free life had passed beneath a shadow, for Val, the light of the rancho, was dim with a strange depression. There was no laughter on her lips now, no pretty tricks delighted the riders coming in or going out. Instead a mortal sickness was in her long dark eyes, a tremble was always just behind her lips.

Belle, the keenest heart at Paradise beside her daughter's, knew that something was vastly wrong and she made one gentle probe to find its cause.

"Val, darling," she said, "there's a shadow in your sky. Can you tell your mother?"

"It's not a shadow, Belle," she said. "It's the end of the world, seems like—but I cannot tell it—not even to you, for there's a secret with it that's not mine."

But if all Paradise knew that Val was in trouble, there was one who gave it little thought—the boss himself. John Hannon was a strange man these days, who had always been so to his subordinates. He seemed strung like a singing wire, full of energy, blazing with a zest of life that made him marked among the slower blood of more youthful men. He entered into the ranchers' plans for the capture of the Black Rustler with vim and apparent joy.

"Perhaps John Hannon's magic," he said pointedly to them one day, "will work again—in another way."

And sometimes his eyes, dropped quickly when he felt their tell-tale fire, shone with that odd excitement that was mad as lunacy.

"Th' best in its line," he muttered to himself once smoking in the patio. "th' Black Rustler is th' best in his line."

When the ache in her breast became so heavy as to be unendurable, when it seemed every breath she drew was fraught with pain, when only sighs were on her lips to ease the stricture of her lungs, Val saddled Dawnlight and went to Refugio.

"Padre," she said, standing by the little table where she had listened entranced to Velantrie's pleasant speech so long—so long ago it seemed!—"padre dear—I've come for help."

Her lips quivered with the troublesome tears that were so near her eyes now, and Father Hillaire looked deep into her face, opened his old arms and took her in against his breast with her forehead pressed to his shabby cassock.

"Tell me," he said, "what you have learned."

And into this wise heart which had been her safe confessional since she could remember, she poured the story of her love and its bitter end.

"And Lolo called him, padre," she sobbed, "the—ah!—the Black Rustler—and he—did not deny! He said—ah!—that—he could not!"

"What?" cried Father Hillaire, the tears suddenly blinked from before his vision, "why—he—"

Then he drew in his breath with a whistling sound and said no more.

"Higher Hands," he murmured, "perhaps—ah, well, it is in higher Hands than mine, at last."

And to himself he said sadly, "Tragedy steps this way with her head covered. Ah, Val, Val—my little, little one!"

But the habit of a wonderful life was strong upon him and he gathered his spiritual forces to weave a web of comfort in which to wrap this young soul, quivering from its first great blow. So well did he succeed that when she went back to Paradise some four hours later Val Hannon was her father's daughter once again, strong, contained, ready to face the odds of life with the great courage that was inherent in her.

So time passed. The heat of the summer lessened, the soft blue blaze deepened on the plains, and Indian Summer came overnight. Its little cool winds were soft as the breath of a child, the gold of its sunlight thrice refined and tender.

So the days went by on leaden feet, sweet blue days, hazy, soft, filled with the mystery of spring, the mild content of summer, the forecast of the fall.

Sometimes Val turned her eyes to where Mesa Grande stood like a flat-topped mountain, and then she grew weak in the knees with memory of that last terrible day, leaned against a wall and slow tears filed her eyes.

Briston smoked many cigarets under the stars and wove long webs of thought and a great unrest was on his faithful heart. He saw many things that others did not and he watched several persons covertly—among them Jose.

He had long watched Jose. The slim brown Merican was very clever, very quiet and contained. Miguel and Arlas, the latter long since keeping house with pretty Felicita in the good cabin beyond the third corral—they were clear ponds compared to him. Also the Indian vaqueros.

Jose, now Jose with his fathomless eyes and his silent step—who on the rancho so well fitted to leave the place in the night and be back at dawn with no one the wiser? Who, for instance, with the adroit cunning to wrap a horse's feet? Who made such fancy hackamores—to bind a restless nose. And whose eyes, among all the riders, lifted to the boss's with just that lightning flicker, fell so swiftly when the lash between the two was done,

Yea, verily—Tom Briston wasted long night hours when he might have slept, and much good tobacco—thinking.

CHAPTER XVIII

THE FACE IN THE DOORWAY

Once more Santa Leandra drowsed beneath its trees. Like an ancient dame among towns she sat above her priceless stream, her old head nodding in the haze, her hands folded in her lap. Her doors were open to the soft winds and the sunshine, her countless babies brawled in her silent streets, her nondescript dogs slept on her sills.

At the tumble-down picket fence that flanked the Sanchez cabin there stood a huge dark horse, ill made and awkward, its slug head drowsily hanging its broad hips slung sidewise as it rested. It was hung together like a scaffold, and it seemed its giant bones must creak when it moved—but there was not a man in Santa Leandra who knew that when it squared away in action with the open plain for field that there was not a horse in all the rangeland that could catch it, neither Dollar, nor Silkskin, nor yet five of Hannon's Red Brood—save and except that lost glory of Paradise, Redstar, the king—that Lightning himself could do no more than run with it.

CALIFORNIA LEADS IN PLANTING TREES ALONG ROADSIDES

OTHER STATE PLAN TO SET OUT MORE TREES DURING ARBOR DAY CELEBRATIONS; GEORGIA TO FORGE AHEAD

Washington—The American Tree Association's call to "celebrate the centennial of Arbor Day in 1972 fifty years before it happens by planting trees NOW" wil lbe answered in thousands of places, the association's officials say, now that Arbor Days are at hand. The first states to begin planting will b Alabama and Texas in each of which Arbor Day comes next Thursday (Feb. 28.)

Wisconsin To Plant

According to the association, which sends free tree planting instruction to anyone who asks for it, California is out to keep the lead in roadside planting and this spring will see many new miles of roads beautified with trees and shrubs. Arbor Day comes in that state on March seven. Minnesota and Michigan as well as Wisconsin plan to keep up their work of last year while a campaign for roadside planting has just been begun in Indiana.

Georgia Pushes Plan

To Georgia goes first place for a statewide educational campaign calling for tree planting and "when that state gets under way look out" the Association's statement adds. In Georgia the Association in cooperation with Mrs. W. W. Stark of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs is putting tree planting suggestions into the hands of every club head and school teacher.

George W. Guy of the Cooperative Education Association of Richmond, Va., with 1600 Community Leagues is working out plans for an Arbor Week.

INDUSTRIAL SYSTEM IN CHINA POOREST IN WORLD HISTORY

ECONOMIST STATES THAT SYSTEM IS CAUSING UNREST AND ORGANIZATION OF LABOR UNIONS TO RELIEVE CAUSE.

Chicago.—The industrial system in China today is the worst in world history and is causing unrest and the organization of labor unions, according to Rev. Sherwood Eddy, who just completed a survey of industrial conditions there and reported to the Committee on Conservation and Advance of the Methodist Episcopal Church, here.

According to the report, Chinese adult male laborers receive from five cents to eighty cents per day and Chinese miners, who receive only five cents per day, have organized labor unions in some places, to better their conditions, which, they assert, are such that they cannot buy both rice and clothing with that meagre pay. The miners work ten hours a day underground and work seven days a week as is the custom in Chinese factories, the report says.

Receive No Pay

According to the survey, boys of nine years of age are employed by thousands in various factories and in forty pongee silk factories in Chefoo, 25,000 boys and young men work thirteen hours a day for wages averaging six cents each. Boys are working in such factories because their parents cannot afford the necessary three cents per day to feed them, the report continues. They receive only their food and clothing.

Small girls are likewise employed in the factories in countless numbers, many of them working among machines unprovided with most elementary safety devices, and frightful accidents are by no means rare, Dr. Eddy reports.

The report states that factory managers openly boast that there are in China "no vexatious factory laws" providing for safety devices, and the principles of workmen's compensation is unheard of.

"In certain sections there are signs of unrest and disorder," says Dr. Eddy's manuscript. "Scarcely a day passes without report of a strike in some department. The universal demand is for shorter hours, increased wages and the right to organize."

No Official Jobs For Kluxers In Louisiana

Alexander, La., Feb. 17—No member of the Ku Klux Klan, if he knows it, will be appointed to a public office as long as he is governor of Louisiana, Governor Parker replied in a letter received by L. B. Baynard, state representative, in reply to Mr. Baynard's open letter to the governor, charging him with failure to appoint two men in Rapides Parish as requested by the majority of voters.

Ashland Basketball Five Trimmed At Marshfield

The Ashland Union Club basketball five which was prevented from playing here Thursday evening by the railroad tie-up succeeded in getting through to Marshfield Friday night in time to take a thorough trimming, 37 to 15. Hard luck at the cage was reported to have been largely responsible for the visitors' poor showing on the score sheet.

PLANT PESTS COST COUNTRY MILLIONS

GOVERNMENT AGENTS KEPT BUSY DRIVING OUT PESTS; CAUSE MORE DAMAGE THAN DOPE AND BOOZE PEDDLERS.

Washington.—Dope peddlers, bootleggers and diamond smugglers have odd schemes to fool Uncle Sam's sharp eyed men. But their evil ways do not cost the tax payer nearly so much as the plant pests that slip into the country. The figures show that the tax payer is paying tribute to plant pests at the rate of about two billion dollars a year, the American Nature Association says, therefore it will be seen just how important the Plant Policeman's job is.

Just as the metropolitan police departments tabulate all the "dope" on a law breaker, there is a "rouge's gallery" of the plant world. The Atlantic States know what the chestnut blight and the white pine blister rust have done. The country knows the South's experience with the boll weevil. One of the original enemies to be brought to this land from Europe was the Hessian Fly which came in straw the soldiers used to bed their horses. That fly still costs the country the price of the Revolutionary War every year because of what it does to wheat.

Introduced from Mexico, the boll weevil has cost the cotton growers of the South enough to pay off the national debt. One hundred million acre corn crop is annually exposed to a dozen destructive disease, most of which wormed their way into America from foreign fields. The last to appear is the European corn borer. Thus far science has made no headway in exterminating this pest. The best it can do is to strive to limit the area attacked.

Gypsy Moth Imported

The bootlegger's most approved system of marketing his wares cannot possibly "cover the territory" as the gypsy moth has done. A professor at Harvard University some years ago was experimenting with all kinds of silk worms and cultures of gypsy moths, trying to develop a variety of silk worm which would resist this noxious disease. A gust of wind blew several cultures through his laboratory window. Shortly thereafter, the gypsy moth became a destructive pest in Massachusetts and now extends its depredations over more than 20,000 square miles of American area, the American Nature Association says. This pest accomplishes almost as much economic damage as the annual fire which constitute one of the most serious menaces with which we have to contend.

The dope peddler does not like more clever as the brown tail moth, which came from Holland or France in shipments of roses. The Japanese beetle came to our shores on imported Iris plants. The San Jose scale has rendered fruit production prohibitive in some parts of the United States and costs more than $10,000,000 a year.

Destroy Infected Seed

All fruit, seed or plant products that are found to be diseased are either destroyed or else rendered practically sterile by thorough fumigation large enough for several freight cars to run inside at a time. In this way all the cotton and cotton seed that comes in from Mexico is rendered harmless so far as the distribution of objectionable cotton diseases is concerned.

According to the association, which sends free tree planting instruction to anyone who asks for it, California is out to keep the lead in roadside planting and this spring will see many new miles of roads beautified with trees and shrubs. Arbor Day comes in that state on March seven. Minnesota and Michigan as well as Wisconsin plan to keep up their work of last year while a campaign for roadside planting has just been begun in Indiana.

Georgia Pushes Plan

To Georgia goes first place for a statewide educational campaign calling for tree planting and "when that state gets under way look out" the Association's statement adds. In Georgia the Association in cooperation with Mrs. W. W. Stark of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs is putting tree planting suggestions into the hands of every club head and school teacher.

INDUSTRIAL SYSTEM IN CHINA POOREST IN WORLD HISTORY

ECONOMIST STATES THAT SYSTEM IS CAUSING UNREST AND ORGANIZATION OF LABOR UNIONS TO RELIEVE CAUSE.

Chicago.—The industrial system in China today is the worst in world history and is causing unrest and the organization of labor unions, according to Rev. Sherwood Eddy, who just completed a survey of industrial conditions there and reported to the Committee on Conservation and Advance of the Methodist Episcopal Church, here.

According to the report, Chinese adult male laborers receive from five cents to eighty cents per day and Chinese miners, who receive only five cents per day, have organized labor unions in some places, to better their conditions, which, they assert, are such that they cannot buy both rice and clothing with that meagre pay. The miners work ten hours a day underground and work seven days a week as is the custom in Chinese factories, the report says.

Receive No Pay

According to the survey, boys of nine years of age are employed by thousands in various factories and in forty pongee silk factories in Chefoo, 25,000 boys and young men work thirteen hours a day for wages averaging six cents each. Boys are working in such factories because their parents cannot afford the necessary three cents per day to feed them, the report continues. They receive only their food and clothing.

Small girls are likewise employed in the factories in countless numbers, many of them working among machines unprovided with most elementary safety devices, and frightful accidents are by no means rare, Dr. Eddy reports.

The report states that factory managers openly boast that there are in China "no vexatious factory laws" providing for safety devices, and the principles of workmen's compensation is unheard of.

"In certain sections there are signs of unrest and disorder," says Dr. Eddy's manuscript. "Scarcely a day passes without report of a strike in some department. The universal demand is for shorter hours, increased wages and the right to organize."

No Official Jobs Eor Kluxers In Louisiana

Alexander, La., Feb. 17—No member of the Ku Klux Klan, if he knows it, will be appointed to a public office as long as he is governor of Louisiana, Governor Parker replied in a letter received by L. B. Baynard, state representative, in reply to Mr. Baynard's open letter to the governor, charging him with failure to appoint two men in Rapedes Parish as requested by the majority of voters.

The Ashland Union Club basketball five which was prevented from playing here Thursday evening by the railroad tie-up succeeded in getting through to Marshfield Friday night in time to take a thorough trimming, 37 to 15. Hard luck at the cage was reported to have been largely responsible for the visitors' poor showing on the score sheet.

PLANT PESTS COST COUNTRY MILLIONS

GOVERNMENT AGENTS KEPT BUSY DRIVING OUT PESTS; CAUSE MORE DAMAGE THAN DOPE AND BOOZE PEDDLERS.

Washington.—Dope peddlers, bootleggers and diamond smugglers have odd schemes to fool Uncle Sam's sharp eyed men. But their evil ways do not cost the tax payer nearly so much as the plant pests that slip into the country. The figures show that the tax payer is paying tribute to plant pests at the rate of about two billion dollars a year, the American Nature Association says, therefore it will be seen just how important the Plant Policeman's job is.

Just as the metropolitan police departments tabulate all the "dope" on a law breaker, there is a "rouge's gallery" of the plant world. The Atlantic States know what the chestnut blight and the white pine blister rust have done. The country knows the South's experience with the boll weevil. One of the original enemies to be brought to this land from Europe was the Hessian Fly which came in straw the soldiers used to bed their horses. That fly still costs the country the price of the Revolutionary War every year because of what it does to wheat.

Introduced from Mexico, the boll weevil has cost the cotton growers of the South enough to pay off the national debt. One hundred million acre corn crop is annually exposed to a dozen destructive disease, most of which wormed their way into America from foreign fields. The last to appear is the European corn borer. Thus far science has made no headway in exterminating this pest. The best it can do is to strive to limit the area attacked.

Gypsy Moth Imported

The bootlegger's most approved system of marketing his wares cannot possibly "cover the territory" as the gypsy moth has done. A professor at Harvard University some years ago was experimenting with all kinds of silk worms and cultures of gypsy moths, trying to develop a variety of silk worm which would resist this noxious disease. A gust of wind blew several cultures through his laboratory window. Shortly thereafter, the gypsy moth became a destructive pest in Massachusetts and now extends its depradations over more than 20,000 square miles of American area. The American Nature Association says this pest accomplishes almost as much economic damage as the annual fires which constitute one of the most serious menaces with which we have to contend.

The dope peddler does nothing more clever as the brown-tail moth which came from Holand or France in shipments of roses. The Japanese beetle came to our shores on imported iris plants. The San Jose scale has rendered fruit production prohibitive in some parts of the United States and costs more than $10,000,000 a year.

Destroy Infected Seed

All fruit, seed or plant products that are found to be diseased are either destroyed or else rendered practically sterile by thorough fumigators large enough for severl freight cars to run inside at a time. In this way all the cotton and cotton seed that comes in from Mexico is rendered harmless so far as the distribution of objectionable cotton diseases is concerned.

"A TAILOR MADE MAN"

Charles Ray in "A Tailor Made Man" is the featured attraction at the Ideal Theater again tonight. It played to a packed house both Sunday afternoon and evening and the movie fans who saw the play declared it to be one of the best Ray pictures ever shown here.

The play is refreshing and replete with wit and wisdom, affording Ray one of the best vehicles of his screen careers. "A Tailor Made Man" is the first of Mr. Ray's big features for United Artists, and is a screen comedy drama of a higher type.

The story tells how John Paul Bart got himself out of the rut of drudgery to a high place in the social and business world, through his own theory that good clothes are the main point in moulding a man's influence over his fellows. The play moves swiftly thru thrilling situations to an intense climax and a surprising finish.

Anyone attending the show this evening can well proclaim it an evening well spent, as he would be out of the ordinary if he didn't enjoy it.

Numerous important cases are docketed for early hearing in the Supreme Court of the United States, which reconvenes today after a recess of three weeks.

Odanah, Wis.—Within a month or six weeks, this village will be no more. Odanah is like several other unfortunate towns, whose beginnings were made in a lumbering district only to be left deserted when the wood was exhausted and the area of the lumbering operations moved towards other towns, whose natural resources extended farther than lumber, thereby keeping them alive.

Leaking Trunk Reveals Shipment Of Moonshine

Hurley, Wis.—Shipping moonshine in trunks is the latest stunt tried by Hurley bootleggers. A seizure of the outlawed nectar was made at Ironwood, Mich. recently after the trunk had splung a leak. Investigation disclosed 20 gallons of moonshine. A suit case containing 5 gallons was also seized at the same time.

PICRIC ACID AGAIN AVAILABLE HERE

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT STILL HAS BIG STOCK OF WAR EXPLOSIVE; GIVES SATISFACTORY RESULTS

Picric acid for land clearing purposes will be available to Wood county farmers at prices materially below those quoted last year, it has been announced by County Agricultural Agent R. A. Peterson following receipt by him of notice from the federal government that enough of the surplus war explosive is still on hand to insure Wisconsin farmers all that they can use this year. The price this year will be $10.95 per hundredweight, as against $11.20 last year, and in addition blasting caps will be furnished free with the explosive, making a net reduction in price of several dollars per hundred pounds.

Plenty For This Year

This year the picric acid will be sold to all farmers who order it in lots of 1,000 pounds or less. The federal government has on hand 3,000,000 pounds and it is expected that sufficient will be allotted to Wisconsin to meet all demands. Indications are, however, that this will be the last year that picric acid will be available, because when the present stock is gone there will be no more for land clearing purposes.

Last year 35,000 pounds of the explosive were distributed in the county with the result that over 3,000 acres of land were cleared and made available for cultivation. Farmers who used the picric acid found it both economical and effective, and it is believed that many of them will reorder. It is considerably cheaper than dynamite, in view of the fact that one pound of the acid is equivalent to a pound and one-half of dynamite for land clearing.

Much Uncleared Land

Approximately 6,000 acres of Wood county land have been brought under cultivation within the two years that the government explosive has been available to farmers, according to County Agent Peterson. There are, however, over 200,000 acres of uncleared land in the county still.

Orders for picric acid may be placed with banks throughout the county, or directly with Mr. Peterson.

Run-Away Heifer Found In Clark County Woods

A heifer that ran away over three months ago and has since that time been living in the woods of southeastern clark county was recently recovered by a Neillsville man.

When discovered, she ran like a deer, but with the help of a horse was run down and captured. Investigation showed that she had been hiding in a dense thicket of prickly ash, and had apparently subsisted almost wholly upon swamp grass. In spite of her months of exposure and lack of food she was in fairly good condition.

Will Give Home Talant Comedy At Pt. Edwards

"The Eclipse of the Honeymoon", a comedy which has been successfully presented by amateurs organizations a number of cities, will be given by the Port Edwards Parent-Teacher association at the Port Edwards Auditorium either Monday or Tuesday of next week, it has been announced, following the arrival in Port Edwards of Mrs. Anne Hocking Smith who already has the work of training the cast well underway.

Mrs. Smith's ability as a director of home talent productions is well known to the people of Wisconsin Rapids, Port Edwards and Nekoosa, as she has been in charge of a number of successful amateur productions here in the past. That the "Eclipse of the Honeymoon" will be the most entertaining of these is Mrs. Smith's own opinion, based upon the qualities of the play itself, and upon the prospects for a highly competent cast which the early rehearsals have already given.

A definite date for the production will be announced within a day or two. F. H. Rosebush is chairman of the entertainment committee of the Parent-Teacher association which is sponsoring the affair.

GREAT BRITAIN TO PROTECT TRAWLERS AGAINST RUSSIANS

RESULT OF ACTION OF REDS IN BOARDING FISHER; BOAT CAUGHT IN STORM AND ALL WERE LOST.

London.—The British trawler Magneta, out of Hull, went fishing over a year ago in company with other vessels off the Murman coast, 600 miles north of Petrograd in the Arctic Ocean. She carried a crew of 12 men. Early on the morning of December 21, 1922, when nine miles off shore, she was arrested by a Russian patrol vessel for fishing within territorial waters. The patrol took on board two of the Magneta's crew as hostages, and sent two of her own men on board the trawler to act as an armed guard. The Magneta was compelled to head for the port of Murmansk, but a violent storm arose and the fisherman was wrecked on the beach and all on board were lost.

Britain Asks Damages

There upon the British government protested to the Soviet authorities. It advanced the argument that the loss of the Magneta was due to her arrest, as other vessels near her, keeping to the open sea, rode out the storm successfully. The British protests have been in vain, and the Soviet government has refused any guarantee that the incident would not be repeated, or to assume responsibility for it. The claim presented to Russia amounts to $125,000. The unfortunate widows and families of the English fishermen who were drowned are reduced to charity.

Send Armed Ships

Russia replies that only its sea vessels may fish within 12 miles of the coast. This claim is contrary to the general usage of the seas, and England refuses to recognize it. The Soviet Government's argument invites the closing of some three thousand miles of fishing grounds which are rarely fished by Russian vessels, and used only by Norwegian and English vessels.

Now the British government has sent an armed ship to the Murman coast to protect British trawlers. To reach this part of the Arctic Ocean the route is roughly 1,100 north from England, then along the North Cape to the eastward, and 200 miles down to the fishing grounds.

Mrs. Ida Haferman, Sigel, Dies After Long Illness

Mrs. Ida Haferman, wife of Friebert Haferman, prominent town of Sigel farmer, died at her home there Friday night after suffering for the past twelve years from a cerebral disease.

She was born in Germany, April 21, 1862, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schrieber. The family came to this country in 1885 and in August 1886, Ida Schrieber was married to Friebert Haferman of the town of Sigel, where they have since resided. She died at the age of 60 years, 9 months and 26 days.

Mrs. Hafermann is survived by her huband, six sons, Frank, Arthur, Albert and William of Wisconsin Rapids, Leo of Iowa and Irving at home, and by one daughter, Lydia, Mrs. Walter Beck, on the homestead.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday, February 21 at one o'clock from the house to the Evangelical Lutheran St. John's Church at Sigel, Rev. List officiating. Burial will be in the Lutheran Cemetery at Sigel.

MANY STUDENTS AT UNIVERSITY ENTER ATHLETIC GAMES

4,200 ENTER INTO SPORTS AT MADISON; TRACK AND BASEBALL MOST POPULAR OF INTRA-MURAL SPORTS

Madison, Wis., Feb. 19—More than 4,200 men played on athletic teams last year at the University of Wisconsin. That many contestants participated in the 25 different kinds of athletics promoted by the department of physical education, according to Prof. F. E. Jones, chairman of the men's division in the department.

Keen Competition

While intercollegiate athletics, or competition with other universities, was bringing a few into the limelight as members of those teams, thousands of others were playing on teams organized as intra-mural athletics, or competition between various organizations within the university. Keen competition is developed in inter-college, inter-fraternity, inter-boarding house, inter-military company and all-university teams.

There was also competition in sports not fully recognized as Varsity sports, but supported by the department, such as soccer, skiing and canoeing. A program for fall, winter, and spring sports provides team experience for every man. The list of participations in the various sports reached 8,625, but some men were listed in more than one.

All Branches of Sport

Track with 2,017 entrants, led in popularity according to the figures compiled by Professor Jones. Baseball, with 952; and basketball with 789, were next on the list. Swimming attracted 650. Tennis had 470 men on teams and skating, 400. Soccer football recruited 352, crew 320, and canoeing, 300.

Some 200 men played volley ball, and 270 enrolled in developmental basketball. About 184 men entered cross country teams, 195 bowled, and 160 wrestled. Boxing recruited 180 volunteers, while 700 took boxing as required work and to enter the required tournament. Participation in other forms of sports was divided as follows: ice hockey, 72; gymnastics, 32; fencing, 12; handball, 60; golf, 25; skiing, 27; field hocky, 80; and water basketball, 40.

Highways Win Two From Normington's Smashers

After losing the first game the Highway bowlers came back strong and won the remaining two contests against the Normingtons and are now resting secure in first place with but little chance of dislodging them.

The sure shots won two out of three against the Foundries in the other games bowled over the week end.

Another Record Falls Before Onslaught Of Ray

Buffalo, N. Y.—Two records were broken and two tied Saturday night in the annual senior A. A. U. meet. Joie Ray bettered for the two mile run held by J. W. Roming, Penn. State, by making the distance in 10 2-5.

In the one and seven-eighths mile medley race, the Illinois A. C. team made a new record of 7 minutes 35 2-5 seconds. Loren Murchison tied his old record of 6 2-5 seconds in the sixty yard dash. He also tied the record of 31 1-5 seconds for 300 yards, made by Allan Woodring of Syracuse university last year.

Ray did not compete in the 1,000 yard run, paving the way toward victory for his teammate, Ray Watson, who negotiated the distance in 2 minutes and 15 3-5 seconds. Ray led his teammates in the relay race, finishing ahead of John Connolly of Georgetown. The Illinois team broke all indoor records for the distance.

A complete air compressor outfit for rock drilling at high altitudes has been built by an Austrian engineer largely from aluminum and is light enough to be transported by one man.

Antigo Victory Tangles Valley Basketball Race

An unexpected victory by Antigo over Wausau by a thirty to fifteen score Friday evening injected a new element into the Wisconsin Valley Conference cage race. Wausau and Stevens Point still lead with seven games won and only one lost each, but Antigo also has only lost one game, and although because of a shorter schedule she does not give quite such an impressive figure in the percentage column, is entitled to consideration by virtue of the victory over Wausau.

Following are the standings of the eleven teams in the conference:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Wausau	7	1	.875

LINCOLN FIVE TO PLAY TOMAHAWK WEDNESDAY NIGHT

FAST AGGREGATION FROM THE NORTH WILL ATTEMPT TO LOWER COLORS OF THE RED AND WHITE; MERRILL HERE THURSDAY.

The fast Tomahawk high school basketball team, who were scheduled to play here last Friday night but were unable to obtain transportation because of the storm, will furnish the opposition to the Lincoln high quintette Wednesday night at the high school gym in a game that promises to be one of the fastest exhibitions put up on the school floor this season. Thursday night the northeners will stack up against the Nekoosa high school team in the gym at Alexander high school.

Have Good Record

The northerners are coming to this city with a very impressive record and are considered to be one of the fastest high school teams in the northern part of the state. Small and fast the players are exceptionally adept at working the ball down the floor with clock like precision and have succeeded in running up large scores against the majority of their opponents.

Against Merrill the Tomahawk cagers run up a huge score owing to the ability of the forwards to leak thru their opponents defense and slip the ball through the net. Their guards are supposed to be the classiest pair in high school basketball and are large responsible for the high standing that the Tomahawk team has in northern basketball circles.

Should Trim Merrill

After their great showing at Wausau it is expected that the Lincoln five will be able to give a good account of themselves in their efforts to check the rush of the invaders from the north.

Friday night the Merrill highs come down for a game that should be turned into a win by Coach Ritchay's men. Unlike their football teams the lumber city has never managed to put a real classy aggregation of basket tossers on the floor and are never considered to be in the same class as other teams in the valley circuit.

The government of Brazil is planning to encourage the establishment of a factory in that country for the production of printing papers from native raw materials.
